Child Protection at the IFRC (English)

Child Protection at the IFRC (English)

IFRC

Child Protection at the IFRC is a course which aims to explore the concept of Child Protection in our work. This is an essential course for IFRC staff, contractors and volunteers.

The course covers three key areas: an overview of Child Protection, Responding and Reporting, and Taking Action. You learn about the IFRC's zero tolerance for violence against children, the IFRC Strategic Framework for Child Protection as well as about the Rights of the Child. The course is also answering key questions such as: What is child protection and violence against children? What different types of violence do children face? What types of children are at risk from violence? And what are the consequences of violence against children?

You might experience difficulties in accessing this course as it is Flash-Based. This online course will be redeveloped and made available in the course of 2021. Stay tuned!
